

Property Valuations Here Soar 21.6%

With property valuations jumping an unprecedented 21.6 per cent in the city of Placentia for this fiscal year, local residents, if they do not receive tax rate relief, can anticipate an additional $50,000 to $65,000 added to city budget incomes, Frank Dunnivant, the city's Finance Director estimated this week.

However, if the city council, which will set tax rates in August, does not lower the city tax rate, Placentians will find themselves with considerably higher tax bills, county assessor Bradley L. Jacobs warned.

The city's windfall in development and the added boost of inflation are responsible for a total of $119,924,290 in Placentia secured and unsecured valuations for 1976-77, Jacobs revealed. This 21.6 per cent increase follows one of 18.1 per cent last year.

The Placentia Unified School

District's increase is less spectacular at 15.2 per cent for 1976-77, following a 22 per cent boost last year.

Jacobs' records show the district's total valuations for this year at $373,306,830 a dollar increase of $49,262,810.

Dr. John Mullender, assistant superintendent of administrative services of PUSD explained that this may not appreciably increase the district's revenues because of the complexities of school financing which includes subsidization from or subtraction of state monies to offset the affluence or poverty of the district.

The current PUSD budget was predicated on a 9 per cent increase, Dr. Mullender explained. The city's calculations were on a 16 per cent rather than the 21.6 which developed.

"The new valuations could increase the amount of taxes collected locally," Dr. Mullender theorized, explaining that the district has not as yet received its official figures. "But it will reduce aid from the state."

Recent school financing from the California legislature will be of some help to the district, Dr. Mullender estimated.

In the North Orange County

Community College District of which Placentia is a part, valuations increased 14 per cent, barely topping last year's boost of 13.2 per cent.

Valuations for the current year are $2,532,728,786, adding in dollar value $311,799,861 to last year's survey.

The city of Placentia's 21.6 per cent boost compares favorably with

Placentia Students Visit Italy—

A COOL DRINK OF WATER is provided by a friendly lion faced fountain on a street in Venice, the city of canals. Placentian Tom Arden fills his cup as Sally Agrusa and Jennifer Harris wait in the background. American and Italian students, parents and chaperones had just visited a glass factory in the Italian city.

FEEDING THE PIGEONS is fun anywhere but especially interesting so far away from home. The picture shows both Italian and American students in a plaza in Venice.

City Adopts $6,511,316 Budget

The Placentia City Council Tuesday night adopted a $6,511,316 budget, the largest in its history.

Last minute changes included an additional $1,100 for the city's Bicentennial activities; deletion of $52,000 for a street sweeper; addition of $11,953 to transfer an employee from street cleaning into the parks division and an increase of $24,869 on the city's insurance bill.

Staff had estimated the city's insurance cost for fiscal year at $60,000 which proved to be short of the $84,869 finally agreed upon. The addition in the Bicentennial budget raises that total amount to $4,300.

Left in the budget was a request for police cars which may be needed to complete the year. It was explained by staff that the city has attempted to use police vehicles for two years but it may be necessary to revise that estimate downward to 18 months or a year.

Mayor Pro Tem William Rashford pointed out that although the budget is 24 per cent larger than last year's, the difference is primarily due to the capital projects planned, which include the first phase of a maintenance yard.

Councilman Donald Holt attempted to attach a rider to the budget detailing future discussions concerning the utility tax which would delineate its uses; would consider a possible reduction on all or one of the utilities and would program the retirement of the utility tax at the earliest possible date.

The other four councilmen and councilwoman disagreed unanimously with the inclusion of the word agreement and the proposal was dropped.

"It sounds like we're making a deal," Mayor George De Jesus countered.

The budget as adopted includes basically 39 per cent for salaries and benefits or $2,512,122; 36 per cent for capital outlay or $2,306,331 and 25 per cent for materials, supplies and contractual services or $1,654,941.

Street Cleaning Will Be Split Service

Following a trend already in evidence at City Hall, the Placentia City Council Tuesday night voted unanimously to contract out half of the city's street sweeping services for six months.

The contractual arrangement will cover only half the city with the other portion to be serviced by city forces. Paramount in the discussions was the saving of money.

Savings in the new 50-50 arrangement would be enhanced by eliminating the need for the city to buy a new street sweeper at a cost of $52,000. Further economies could be realized from the agreement but will be somewhat nullified by retaining the second street sweeper operator on the city payroll as a maintenance and parks employee.

The street operator's salary and benefits to be kept in the budget was reported at $12,718 for a ten months

Council OKs City Insurance

With a 1,100 per cent increase in the cost of its catastrophe insurance, the city of Placentia last week approved a policy that would ensure the greatest coverage of large claims under errors and omissions.

The city council choosing between two bids received, selected a policy with Akasaka, Ortiz and Cioatto of Cerritos. The policy will cover the city up to $3,000,000 for professional errors of council or staff.

The city's insurance has been placed for the past seven years with Tom Shipkey, a local broker. However, council preferred Akasaka-

GROUND BREAKING for the $3.4 million John Tynes Elementary School took place last week as the first step in building the 58,000 square foot facility. The school will include special accommodations for handicapped youngsters. Participating in the groundbreaking ceremony Thursday were vice president of the Placentia Unified School District board of trustees John Balducci; trustee clerk, Jean Pappas; president of the board John Press and Mrs. John Tynes and John Tynes, superintendent of schools for PUSD for whom the facility will be named. In front is Redi Robles who expects to attend the school. The buildings will rest on a 14 acre campus.

John Tynes School Construction Starts

Construction on the new John O. Tynes Elementary School in Placentia started Thursday with informal groundbreaking ceremonies. It is the first of two elementary schools the Placentia Unified School District will start building this summer. Target date for completion is September 1, 1977.

The Tynes school, located just east of the new Placentia Civic Center, will feature an orthopedically handicapped school which will have therapy facilities open to the community, according to Patrick Bowman, the district's director of planning and construction.

A contract to build the $2.6 million school was let to Nick Pokrajac Inc., a Baldwin Park firm, last week. Total estimated cost of the school,

Insurance On Bradford Home

A 220-vote mandate from the people not to spend tax revenues to preserve and maintain the Bradford House, was not alluded to last week when city council members authorized a tax paid $3,000 fire insurance policy to cover the vintage home.

With only hours remaining before the expiration date on the insurance, apparently only one bid had been obtained by staff to cover fire damages on the house.

The policy can be dropped for a less expensive one at a later date, if one can be found, James Park, the city's purchasing agent explained. The $3,000 policy, which was hand run to Los Angeles in order to assure a binder, has a 10 per cent penalty clause which would have to be paid on unearned premiums in case the insurance is switched.

The policy, which was placed with Tom Shipkey Insurance, local brokers also has a $5,000 deductible clause and is written with a face value of $100,000.

In other matters concerning the Bradford House, it was disclosed

PUSD Offers A Contract

The proposed Master Certificated Employment Agreement between the Placentia Unified School District and the approximately 690 teachers represented by the Placentia Unified Education Association (PUEA) was released Wednesday by district trustees.

With the release of the 30-page document, negotiators for the teachers and the district, which represents management and trustees, will begin the collective bargaining process which became law July 1.

Teachers presented their proposal in a 124-page document April 26, asking for an almost 14 per cent salary increase, additional days of paid leave, full dental and orthodonture plan for teachers and dependents, a seven-hour work day (including lunch and preparation time) and an agency shop in which all teachers must join PUEA or pay a service fee to the association or to a charitable organization.

"This Agreement is intended as a complete response to the requirements of the Education Code and Government Code and, as such, shall constitute the point of departure for negotiations with the Placentia Unified Education Association," trustees stated in a position paper.

"This proposal is supported by the terms and intent of existing board policies and procedures and, therefore, continues and extends the existing basis for excellent academic and athletic achievement for the children of Placentia Unified School District."

PUSD Trustees OK $25 Million Budget

A tentative budget of almost $25 million, ($24,946,221) also adopted as the publication budget, has been approved by trustees of the Placentia Unified School District.

A public hearing on the comprehensive document is scheduled for August 2.

Expenditures in the budget include $19,367,536 for salaries and fringe benefits, reflecting also the annual step and column increases awarded teachers for years of service and additional education accrued.

Dr. John Mullender, assistant superintendent of administrative services for the school district noted that approximately 4.3 per cent has been built into the budget for step increases as well as the 1.5 per cent required for column changes for teachers and a 1.2 per cent needed this year to cover the increased cost of Blue Cross coverage.

"All together these increases are 7 per cent for teachers generally and 5.8 per cent for other personnel," he outlined.

The cost, however, he explained, will be offset somewhat when the on-time 1.77 per cent increase given to personnel in last year's negotiations, is deducted from the current salary schedule, making the net increase in wages and benefits, if negotiated, 5.23 per cent and 4.03 per cent.

"The overall prospects for fiscal 1976-77 are not as grim as for some districts," Dr. Mullender added, "if we get added funding from the state for general educational costs."

Mullender recommended to trustees that the balance reserves be increased by at least $100,000 from added income, reduced appropriations or a combination.

"I see no need at this point for

Placentians Enjoy Italian Holiday

A unique goodwill effort between two cities and two countries, concluded a second phase this week on a note of excitement.

Twenty-two youngsters and a group of ten parents and chaperones had returned stateside after spending two weeks with their counterparts and pen pals in Piacenza, Italy.

The unusual series of events began here in September, 1974 with a personal trip by Dr. James Clopton, Placentia, a director of the Placentia-Linda Community Hospital, to Piacenza, Italy.

From that contact evolved months of pen pal letter writing between Piacenza students at the Giordani School and students at Morse Avenue Elementary in Placentia. Later youngsters at St. Josephs Catholic School joined in the spontaneous international exchange.

Last year, Placentia hosted the Piacenza students. This year it was Piacenza's turn.

"We were treated like royalty," Mrs. Sally Agrusa, one of the mothers making the trip, recalls with enthusiasm. "They did everything for us. There will never be a trip like that again ever," she says excitedly.

Teenagers Selected For Commissions

The Placentia City Council Tuesday night selected three teenagers to serve on the city's commissions.

Zail Berry from El Dorado High School will serve on the Beautification Commission; Carlene Dressel, El Dorado High School on the Recreation and Park Commission and Shannon Scherer, Valencia High School on the Traffic and Safety Commission.

The teen commissioners were expected to be appointed and sworn in to their posts Tuesday night.

Bradford House Drawing Returned

An original pen and ink drawing of the Bradford House, which had been reported missing by its artist, Lynn Van Dam following an art exhibit last year, has been recovered.

Mrs. Van Dam said the drawing which was missing for almost a year, was returned to the Backs Community Building following an article which appeared in The Placentia Courier in May telling of its disappearance.

The 20 by 24 inch drawing was used for prints and decorated stationery, which provided funds for the preservation of the heritage home.

Mrs. Van Dam said the recovered drawing has been sold to a patron who had expressed a desire to purchase it.

Athletic Needs Scheduled For Discussion

Projected needs for athletic facilities in the city of Placentia, will be discussed by members of the city's recreation and parks commission and the city council.

The joint meeting has been scheduled for 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, July 13 in the Conference Room at City Hall.

The Recreation and Parks Commission is expected to present a report from all groups in the city using public parks and joint school facilities as to projections of their needs in the future.

The city has unusually high activity level of all major youth sports with many groups still reporting increase in their numbers. What is needed to ensure adequate facilities for everyone is expected to lead the discussion.

Carroll McCormick Succumbs To Illness

Carroll McCormick, 45, a reading specialist at Tuffree Junior High School, died Wednesday, June 30, following a brief illness caused by a cerebral hemorrhage.

She came to the district in 1964 as a teacher at Sierra Vista, moving to Tuffree as reading specialist in 1971. Private memorial services were held Saturday. The family requests donations be made to the Carroll McCormick Memorial Fund to "Reading Educators of California" in care of the Institute for Reading at Cal State Fullerton.

She is survived by her husband Glenn, a teacher at Tuffree, and two children.

Miss Placentia Enters Queen Contest

Miss Placentia, Deanna Musgrove, will vie for the Orange County Fair Queen title at dinner ceremonies slated at 7:30 p.m., Friday, July 9, in the Monte Carlo Room of the Newporter Inn.

The attractive 18 year old is the daughter of the David L. Musgroves of Placentia. Graduated at El Dorado High School, Deanna will enter the fall semester at California State College at Fullerton.

City's Budget $6.5 Million

Revenues come 20 per cent from the property tax; 11 per cent from federal grants; 17 per cent miscellaneous taxes such as sales tax; 18 per cent from building permits and related fees; 7 per cent from the utility tax; 5 per cent county grants; 8 per cent miscellaneous revenues and 14 per cent from state grants, such as motor vehicle license fees.

Police services expend 20 per cent of the budget; fire service 10 per cent; public works construction 17 per cent; administration 14 per cent; recreation and maintenance 20 per cent and general expenses 9 per cent.

The budget does not include, upcoming salary negotiations for city employees. A sizeable $125,000 item has been placed in the budget to cover this contingency.

including site and furnishings, is approximately $3.4 million. Student capacity for the new school, which will be built in a modified open classroom concept, is 701 for the kindergarten-through-sixth grade classes and 76 for the orthopedically handicapped facility. Davis-Duhaime Associates of Corona Del Mar is the architectural firm.

Square footage for the new school is 36,740 for the K-6 portion and 23,200 for the orthopedically handicapped section.

The school plan represents several years of work by the district's special education staff, headed by former director Charles Johannsen, who recently took a position with the State Department of Education.

The school conforms to the concepts of the new State Master Plan for Special Education in which handicapped students will be integrated with regular students during the school day.

District trustees named the school for the current superintendent who has worked with children in the district for 32 years and is an authority on special athletics programming.

The second new school planned for the district will be started next month and has been named Woodsboro Elementary. Completion is slated for June 1977.

that of Orange County as a whole. The county valuation is up 18.7 per cent, thought to be the greatest year in its history.

The net taxable value of valuations in Orange County after non reimbursable exemptions is quoted as $8,182,998,341 a dollar increase over last year of $1,291,505,931.

The county assessor pointed out that it is the function of his office to "realistically estimate the current market value of all taxable property in a uniform manner required by law."

"The assessor does not set tax rates. The tax rates are determined from the budgets of the taxing agencies," Jacobs continues. "All property taxpayers should know that the cause of increased property taxes is not the increased assessed valuation, but rather increased spending."

"When any taxing agency increases its budget, the amount of money derived from property taxes will be higher regardless of the assessment level," he concluded.

RESTAURANT REQUEST

The Red Lobster Restaurants, owned by General Mills Inc., have requested to be placed on the agenda of a Placentia City Council meeting to be held at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, July 8 in the conference room at City Hall.

TREASURED SOUVENIRS bring back pleasant memories of the two weeks excursion to Italy by some of the delegation of Placentia students and parents. All want to go back again "but at a slower pace." Seated are Sully Agrusa, Jennifer Harris, Marian Headman and Steve Reiter. In front are Angela and Mark Agrusa.

Italian Holiday

"We saw so much...they packed so much into every day," Mrs. Marian Headman, a teacher in the Placentia Unified School District whose Morse School class first became involved, reports. "We'd think at the end of the day...they can't top this," and the next day they would."

Many of those who made the special trip expressed the highlight of all the exciting events, as the private audience with Pope Paul.

A private audience is not exactly that, but a very special arrangement not accorded to all visitors of Italy. The American visitors and their hosts had passes for a special meeting involving about a thousand persons.

The Pope is carried into this congregation, sits on a stage and talks to the people assembled, they explained. He knows who is there and everyone is introduced. The Placentia visitors were singled out for special recognition.

"He was so humble, so human," Sally Agrusa recalls.

"He spoke to us in several languages," her daughter Angela Agrusa remembered, "German, Italian, English, French and Spanish. He spoke in all of them."

The Americans had been seated in the front row. "He said how wonderful he thought it was that the children had united a bond of friendship between the two countries," Angela reminisced. "He emphasized our group the most."

Students Steve Reiter and Mark Agrusa also found the Papal audience the most impressive event of the two-week sojourn.

But rivalling in importance was the beauty of Italy, the impressive works of art, the antiquity, the group recalled this week.

Although the political scene was electric while the Placentians were visiting the boot-shaped country, the American travelers knew little of what was going on.

"We couldn't read the newspapers," Mrs. Agrusa explained, "and we couldn't understand anything on the radio," Mrs. Headman added. "We'd ask people but we got rather vague answers."

There was really little time for politics on the itinerary arranged for the visitors.

Also joining the group was the family of Placentia City Treasurer, Robert Lyons, who with the Michael Callahans' daughter, Eileen, are touring the continent. This special group joined the other Placentians at the American Embassy in Rome at the Vatican and later in Placentia. Lyons was mayor of Placentia when the Italian youngsters visited here and a son is one of the original class members who started the pen pal efforts.

Placentians back home, recalling their unique, whirlwind tour were chatting about and revisualizing the wonders of the many impressive cathedrals they visited, the castles, the elegant cuisine and special dinners, including banquets. Also a concert arranged for and presented on their behalf with opera stars imported from Rome. The coliseum ("it was big and beautiful"); beautifully exquisite statues ("they were everywhere, even in the rest rooms"); the hazards of Roman traffic ("it's everything you've heard and worse. Absolutely frightening").

Also: "Florence was beautiful...a beautiful city. We saw another castle. We loved Venice. We saw them making glass," Jennifer Harris recalled. "The boat trip through the canals and into the Adriatic Sea, fabulous." Everyone loved Milano.

No one, however learned to drink the mineral water, usually served with meals, but everyone relaxed when they received plain water with ice in it. Coca Cola was always available but coffee was served very late in the meal and usually drunk with a lot of cream and sugar, the Americans discovered.

The youngsters were impressed with nine course meals which would linger for two hours. "And they learned not to fill up on the first course...that there was more food coming," the adults recalled.

Everyone wants to make a return visit, but at a more leisurely pace than the two-week limit would allow.

It appears that the travellers will have something to talk about for at least another year. At that time, the Italian adults, who served as their hosts, are planning a return visit to Placentia.

That gives the Placentians and their friends 12 months to try to think of some way to match the unique and fabulous two weeks they have just spent, the American adults mused this week.

Street Cleaning

The new arrangement, starting September 1, will award a contract to AAA Sweeping, Inc. of Rosemead for six months of a $17,892 annual fee to sweep half of the city. The rest will be maintained by the city's better street sweeper and one operator.

Having a crew on hand apparently will give response for emergencies if needed, including flooding and accidents, it was pointed out.

Estimating the street sweeper operator's salary to be about 10.8 per cent higher than a beginning park maintenance man, Frank Dunnavant, Director of Finance for the city, recommended that he be kept on the payroll. Dick Samp, Director of the Recreation and Maintenance Services Department said that an additional park employee will be required in September when Wagner Park, now under development, is expected to need servicing.

"I don't care what anybody says...the minute you don't control your own people, you're going to lose something," Councilman Jack

Gomez stated. "I would rather buy the machine and keep the services. It may cost you $52,000 more right now, but let's look at the complete picture of the service that our people are always asking for."

Councilwoman Virginia Farmer added: "I believe the level of service will be reduced and the savings isn't that great."

Councilman Donald Holt challenged that $10,000 savings was "significant."

"I see more and more of the city going out to private industry, more and more going to outside contractors to do the work rather than retaining our own," Holt added. The city now contracts for fire and paramedic services from Orange County and for building maintenance from private firms.

At Mrs. Farmer's suggestion, the contract was curtailed from a year to six months and the council vote was unanimous for approval.

The outside contractor will sweep approximately 74 miles of streets in Placentia each week. The company also services the cities of Commerce, Lomita, Irvine and Chino.

PUSD Tentative Budget

drastic budget cutting," Dr. Mullender continued. "If the state does not provide any added funding, any additions to the budget must be funded by corresponding reductions in existing budgeted expenditures. This would apply to salary increases beyond the approximate 4.3 per cent provided by step increases and approximately 1.5 per cent allowed for column changes for teachers."

Railroad Crossings Under Repair

The Atchison Topeka & Santa Fe Railway Company has completed its mainline railroad crossing maintenance work on Bradford Avenue and expects to complete repair on the crossing on Melrose Street north of Crowther Avenue this week.

Maintenance of these crossings along with the Placentia Avenue Crossing was first requested by the city Department of Community Development in October of 1974.

Due to personnel cutbacks by the railroad company, the work was delayed. The Placentia Avenue crossing was completed in March but work on the Bradford Avenue and Melrose Street crossings was postponed.

The impetus for completion of smoothing out the rough ride over the track crossings came from damaged oil pans on two police vehicles in mid-June. Upon informing the railroad company of this, they took immediate action to remedy the situation by hiring a private contractor to complete the work.

A bill for $156 has been sent to the railroad company for Placentia police car damages. They acknowledged receipt and are processing payment of the bill, Ben Minamide, Director of Community Development for the city reports.

ka, Ortiz and Ciocatto's broader umbrella coverage, although the coverages contain a $5,000 deductible base.

The Shipkey policies would offer $1,000 deductible or less but left a quarter of a million dollar gap on a large judgment against the city if it went above $25,000.

Councilwoman Virginia Farmer told members of the council: "I would be in favor of going in for the heavy coverage and taking the risk on the low liabilities."

The new insurance arrangement will make the city self-insuring on such things as automobile loss, which would not be expected to exceed the $5,000 deductible but which has been of low incidence in Placentia in past years.

The Shipkey policies would offer the excellent interface that we have mutually enjoyed in the development educational philosophy and curriculum with the basis that now exists in board policies and procedures."

The Board has instructed its representatives to meet and negotiate in good faith and to continue the spirit of cooperation to the best possible interest of the children and teachers of the Placentia Unified School District, the statement concludes.

The management proposal recognizes PUEA as the exclusive bargaining representative for teachers, recognizing the right of unit members to "form, join and participate in employee organizations and the equal right...to refuse to form, join or participate in employee organizations."

For negotiating purposes, the proposed contract retains the salary schedule adopted last August, but grants a 7 per cent increase to cover raises for longevity and additional college course work taken by teachers and increased cost of fringe benefits, Dorn said.

The fringe benefit offer remains the same as that available to employees this year and includes Blue Cross health insurance, an annual physical examination and prescription drug coverage, fully paid insurance premiums for employees who retire after the age of 58, and a $10,000 life insurance policy.

Management's proposal sets the work day for teachers at eight hours, excluding lunch, and continues current district policies on leaves.

It also retains the rights of the district, through the board of trustees elected by the public, to "direct and control its operation" including rights to establish educational philosophy, insure the rights and educational opportunities of students, determine staffing patterns, maintain efficiency of district operation, determine curriculum, develop the budget, and "hire, assign, evaluate, promote, terminate and discipline employees."

Other items covered by the management package include rights of PUEA, grievances, class size, transfers, evaluation, safety and method of payroll deduction for PUEA dues.

Copies of the management proposal, along with that of PUEA, are available at all district schools and the district office, 1301 E. Orangeflower Ave.

The public is invited to read the proposals and make their views known to trustees during a public hearing at the regular meeting of the board of education at 7:45 p.m. Monday, July 12.

Bradford House Insurance

that two valuable antique mirrors over the home's fireplaces, had been removed and taken from the premises. One marble fireplace also had been reported loosened from the wall. Park estimated the damage at possibly $2,000.

Police reportedly had no information as to possible suspects in the case. Shipkey said that the house is not now and has never been covered for vandalism. And that there is no affordable insurance against theft or burglary.

The local insurance broker estimated that it would cost between $240,000 to $300,000 to replace the 6,000 square foot Bradford House in today's market. "This house is considered by insurance companies as basically uninsurable. It's a gamble," Shipkey explained.

The basic problem is that the house is unoccupied, Shipkey outlined and added that electrical conditions and the rest of the house must be in good shape.

"Because of the controversy on the house already, they (the insurance carrier) would probably want to be assured that there would be people in there every day as opposed to once a week."

"What relationship does a possible political controversy have on the insurability of the building?" Mayor George De Jesus asked.

"The insurance company is aware that it is vacant and they consider it uninsurable so they would scrutinize it very closely. There is a moral hazard to it. If it were to burn down, some people might consider it welcome," Shipkey explained.

With the fate of the house scheduled to come before city council Tuesday night, there was conjecture that a blue ribbon citizens committee might be named to explore the possibility of maintaining the home and finding a use for it without spending local taxpayer funds.

Blight Hits Evergreen Pear Trees

A blight, apparently caused by low level of rainfall, is striking evergreen pear trees in a three county radius, including those of Placentia, Richard Samp, Director of the city's Recreation and Maintenance Services Department reported to city council.

Samp said it is his understanding that the blight can be eliminated only by cutting the dead branches off the trees, and that trees in the city's parks are being seriously affected.

Homeowners wishing more information on the problem can call 993-8232.

BICENTENNIAL COINS are on display at the Valencia Bank in Placentia. Here bank manager, Alex Know views the bright array with bank secretary Patti Lowden.

Mike Topp Has Surgery

Mike Topp, Placentia Library District employee and son of Liz Topp, Placentia reporter for the Daily News Tribune, is recuperating this week from surgery to correct a collapsed lung.

It was the second time that Topp had suffered the disability and doctors recommended immediate surgery.

To anyone who is suffering from a "summer cold" there may be little comfort in the knowledge that the incidence of summer colds is only one-eighth of what can be expected in the wintertime. It is not known for sure just why this is true. Experts suspect it may be because there is less crowding together indoors, especially in schools, during the summer months. It may also be that some of the many cold viruses are less virulent during warm weather.

Generally, summer colds are just about like any other cold. Summer colds do not "Hang-on" longer...it just seems that they do.

Bonds Sold To Start Schools

The Placentia Unified School District sold $3.31 million worth of bonds to an investors' consortium this week at an interest rate of 5.2028 per cent and a $990,000 issue to United California Bank at a 5.4801 per cent rate.

The winning bids were the lowest of five which came in on the district's bond the day they went on sale.

The interest rate on the large issue represents an increase of only .3356 per cent over the sale of $3.4 million dollars worth of bonds sold in December 1973, according to Dr. John Mullender, associate superintendent of administrative services.

"These were very satisfactory bids," Dr. Mullender reported, noting that the district had expected to pay as high as 5.5 per cent interest. He explained that the district's A-1 credit rating from Moody's Investment Service may be indirectly responsible for the favorable bond sale.

The consortium submitting the low bid on the $3.31 million issue, Series F, from the district's 1970 bond election, is composed of Bank of America; Merrill, Lynch, Pierce, Fenner & Smith; and Dean Witter & Co.

The Series F sale is the sixth and final from the 1970 election in which voters authorized such sales. The $990,000 Series A bonds are the first to go on the market from the 1975 election in which district voters approved $20 million in bonds.

Sale of bonds assures funding.

Agricultural Tour

By Kay Starr

The timing was perfect, a rainstorm to wash the trees and plants prior to the First Annual Legislative Tour and Barbeque on June 12. Sponsored by the Orange County Farm Bureau, open to all legislators of the county and members of the press and broadcast media of the county.

Special guests included Fred Herringer, president of the California Farm Bureau Federation and staff from his Berkeley office; William Fitcher, Agriculture Commissioner of Orange County; and Mrs. Dorothy Wenck, Director of Cooperative Extension of Orange County.

Board members of the Orange County Farm Bureau acted as guides on the bus tour and their wives were hostesses passing around trays of strawberries, celery, carrot sticks for our enjoyment, plus donated baked goods.

Two bus loads left the Irvine Ranch headquarters at 9:30 a.m. traveling east on Irvine Blvd. to Jeffrey Rd. where we turned north past Hines Wholesale and El Modena nurseries and wound our way into the hills of the Irvine Ranch where few people are able to go past the locked gates.

Experimentation with grasses was visible in the culverts, a method to retain water to bring up the water table instead of letting it run off out to the ocean. Cattle grazed the slopes.

Our guide, Cecil Marks, a member of the Historical Society of Orange County, said the Irvine Ranch encompasses 110,000 acres and was founded 110 years ago, primarily as a sheep ranch. Irvine Lake was clearly visible, as was Peter's Canyon Lake. These are part of the seven lakes on the ranch.

Swinging down Santiago Road we came past Saddleback Park, a motorcycle park, alive with riders, then turned onto Chapman Ave. to wind around Orange Park Acres. This area is developing into a haven for horses, with a riding trail around the development.

We passed one egg ranch struggling to maintain its identity amid the housing, and another egg ranch at the end of Taft Ave. that is being swallowed up by a subdivision.

It was interesting to note the plantings of Monterey pines alongside orange trees, the new replacing the old. On Villa Park Road we passed the site of the old Handy Ranch, then past the Villa Park Packing House still in use. They sell the best candy there, it's made from citrus.

Olive was originally called Santa Ana, hence the remains of the first school in Santa Ana 200 years old, also the area beginning the Yorba property. We crossed the Santa Ana River on Lakeview Avenue, looking down to see the percolating basin for water.

Strawberries, field after field of them along La Palma and Orangeflor Avenues. The site of the Yorba Cemetery was pointed out. Pickers were busy collecting the delectable fruit which can claim the #2 spot for cash crops in Orange County, bringing into the county over 22 million dollars on 1600 acres.

The strawberry grower must have a return of $12,000 per acre before he begins to make a profit. It is one of the most intensive types of farming in Orange County. Two kinds of berries provide the crop: the round berry (which we munched on the bus) called the Tioga, and the Park, a flat, elongated berry.

Altho the strawberry plant is a perennial, it is treated as an annual. In order for the maximum yield per acre, the plant is replaced twice a year, August and November. New plants are grown in northern California and shipped after the ground has been prepared with cleaning and fresh furrows.

As we traveled north on Rose Drive, I pointed out the sites of my previous Christmas tree farms, the increase in green house operations and the orange grove to the north. Jack Christensen, co-owner of the orange grove, said that it utilized the land owned by the oil company.

Later, Don Pavlis, owner of "His Gardens" in Yorba Linda, explained about his industry. The nurseryman finds acceptance in communities such as Yorba Linda which is a bedroom community, shunning other types of industry.

Green houses are clean, quiet, offer jobs to local housewives and students, and provide some income for the city in which they operate. Five exist in Yorba Linda with two more planned.

Brea used to be the center of sheep raising by the Basque people. As we rode along Central Ave. we saw the growing fields for Select Nurseries container stock. Bastanchury Ranch covered a large area of Fullerton.

Mrs. Marks commented that there used to be many grapes grown in the area until a blight killed all the vines. Sunny Hills High School's Ag Farm is located along Bastanchury Rd. in land that otherwise would be vacant. A tomato juice stop at, where else, Hunt-Wesson Foods in Fullerton.

Our hostess, Mrs. Bernice Hird, consumer relations director, guided us to a beautiful park area where we sipped chilled tomato juice while we listened to Mac Burt, farm division of Hunt-Wesson, tell us about the Fullerton complex.

We were standing next to the corporate headquarters. Across the street was the tomato cannery and adjacent, the oil production plant. To be continued...

OLD AND NEW--Tom Hogan, background, leads the applause for incoming Rotary Club president Dave Kurisu. Dave completed Tom's term of office when latter resigned after accepting new job which took him away from Yorba Linda. Dave will now serve a full term as president. At right is Mrs. Kurisu.

DECENT BURIAL--Highlight of the Rotary Club year is the "demotion" of the outgoing president. This year Tom Hogan, lying supine and holding flowers in lower right hand corner of photo, was "interred" by club members as Rev. Joe Guthrie delivered a very un-religious eulogy.

Additions Need Permits

Building permits are required for patios, room additions and any structural alterations to properties. Placentia City Staff warned this week. These permits may be obtained by either the property owner or properly licensed contractors.

The City requires two sets of plans showing location of the proposed construction and details of construction. The home owner may take out permits for all work done on his residence by himself or persons employed by him. Commercial and industrial work requires the expertise of a state licensed contractor.

The responsibility of the permittee does not stop with the issuance of the permit. The person obtaining the permit is responsible for obtaining all necessary inspections up to and including final building and occupancy inspections. Victor Newton, Chief Building Official explained.

Cartoon Show

This week "Cartoon Frolics" will be the movie for the week, sponsored by the Placentia Recreation Department.

Featured in the Frolics will be Dr. Devil and Mr. Hare, Bugs Bunny and the one and only Road Runner. Bring your friends and enjoy the fun, the department recommends.

The Movie Schedule is as follows: Morse School, Wednesday, 1:30 p.m.; Atwood Park, Wednesday, 3:30 p.m.; Kraemer Park, Thursday, 10:30 a.m. and Koch Park, Thursday, 1:30 p.m., call 993-8232.

Faucets really brighten up when you scour them with the inside rind of a squeezed lemon. Leaves a nice aroma, too.

For the kids, fill a plastic foam egg carton with fruit drink. Close lid and push popsicle sticks through. When frozen, squeeze bottom of carton to make treats pop out.

Save the good parts of old plastic tablecloths and curtains to replace the feet of children's sleepers.

An old mascara brush will remove all the thread and lint from the nooks and crannies of your sewing machine.

Darken the dashboard for expressway driving at night. You'll see the road more clearly.

Mrs. Ward Ends Unique Role

A teaching career spanning 45 years will end this month when Violet Ward leaves the Placentia Unified School District and returns to her birth place in Platte, South Dakota.

The retiring teacher, has been in Placentia since 1961, is the district's home teacher in charge of providing instruction for students unable to attend school because of illness or injury.

"A home teacher works with children in all grades, from kindergarten through twelfth grade," Mrs. Ward explained. "I have all the credentials, dating back to the years when I collected them so I could get a contract somewhere."

Included in her "collection" are credentials qualifying her to teach at all levels from kindergarten through adult schools, counseling and classes for mentally retarded children.

She began her career teaching in a one-room country school in South Dakota, after completing two years at the state college, all that was necessary for an elementary teaching credential. Four years later, she returned to college to earn her A.B. degree in chemistry and math, taking a job in a two-teacher high school.

After a move to Denver - an area she still talks of fondly - and three years of teaching, she married and spent the next 12 years out of the profession, going back to work in California in 1956.

"Finding a job even then wasn't too easy," she explained, noting that she substituted in a year and a half and taught citizenship and English for the foreign born in night school.

By 1961 she had moved her family to Orange County and began teaching Educable Mentally Retarded classes at Valencia High School in Placentia, where she worked until moving into the home teaching position in 1973.

"I liked teaching at Valencia," she said. "The children in my classes were not problem children, just slow learners."

"I set certain expectations for them and then tried to help them reach those expectations," she explained. "It was always amazing to me to see how much they change from ninth to twelfth grades. They collect their experiences from the past and suddenly start using them."

SCHOOL AT HOME is provided by the Placentia Unified School District for those who cannot attend regular classes. Here veteran teacher Violet Ward, who is retiring this year, gives assignment to Vicki Cole with a study mate machine.

In her post as home teacher, she not only gives private tutoring in all areas to as many as five children, she is responsible for finding teachers for all children who need home or hospital teaching. Currently, there are about 20 children requiring the special help of 11 teachers who work after their regular school day.

Although she has enjoyed her work, she is looking forward to her move back to her home in South Dakota.

MAKE EVERY KILOWATT COUNT.

Edison has over 80 conservation tips. Here's #19.

CUT YOUR COOLING COST UP TO 40%.

Insulate your attic.

If your attic isn't properly insulated, you could be wasting money. Lots of money. Why? Because on hot days your attic is a storehouse of heat. This heat passes through your ceiling and into your rooms. Result: your air conditioning has to work longer and harder. And you end up paying the bill.

By insulating, or increasing the amount of insulation now in your attic, you may reduce your cooling costs as much as 40% - year after year. Your heating costs will also drop.

Based on today's prices, insulating an attic in a typical house runs between $200 and $300. And what better place to invest your money than in your own home?

Check with an insulation contractor or dealer today. Free conservation booklet. Conserving energy is still vital to our nation. Insulating your attic is one way to help. For many other ways to conserve energy, write for our free booklet, "Conservation," Edison, P.O. Box 800, Rosemead, CA 91770.

HOME-RUN COLLECTION—Ray Schmidt of Placentia shows off his prized collection of opening day tickets for the last 14 years of California Angels games. Schmidt thinks no one [other than a few Angels' officials] can top his record. He works as a meter reader at Southern California Gas Co.'s La Jolla base in Anaheim.

Schmidt Avid Angel Fan

One summer when Ray Schmidt was a boy in Colony, Okla., the St. Louis Cardinals barnstormed through town and he caught baseball fever.

"I'm still a kid about baseball," admits Schmidt, 55, a Placentia resident who thinks he and his wife have set a record by attending 14 straight home opening games of the California Angels.

He started rooting for the Angels when they formed in 1961. "Here was a team that was starting from scratch," he explains.

He's been offered money for his prized opening day ticket collection, which includes a ticket from the April 19, 1966, Angels-White Sox game. That was the first game at Anaheim Stadium and the first official American League game in Orange County.

Schmidt, who works as a meter reader at Southern California Gas Co.'s La Jolla base in Anaheim, has books of baseball records dating back 10 years.

He has encyclopedias of every box score from 1903-1975 and baseball guides from 1961 on.

One wall of his "baseball room" is decorated with pictures of 24 batting helmets. A newspaper photograph of pitcher Nolan Ryan sits on a desk.

And he keeps back issues of the Sporting News, the paper he started reading in 1929 back in Colony, population 400.

"I wanted to play professional baseball," says Schmidt, whose older brother played semi-pro against the traveling Cardinals that day in Oklahoma.

Schmidt played first base on local teams for about six years as a boy.

"I wrote the Sporting News and they told me where to try out (for a professional team)," he says. "It was in Florida. But I never did go."

"My parents were poor as church mice and couldn't send me. Besides," he adds, "I really wasn't good enough. Good field but no hit."

Schmidt isn't worried that the Angels are in the cellar.

"You always have that eternal hope. If you're a true baseball fan, regardless of how a team does, you stay with it," he says.

"Anyway," he adds with a smile, "someday they're going to win. Then I'm going to say, 'I told you so.'"

Athletes' Win Honors

Five students from the Placentia Unified School District earned ribbons in the California State Special Olympics held last weekend at UCLA.

Tommy Johnson from Kraemer Junior High won a gold medal in bowling, and is classmate, Peter John Adams, earned second place ribbons in the 25-yard back stroke and diving and a third in relay swimming. Entries from Golden Elementary School winning ribbons were Regina Hovey, first in standing long jump and a second in 50-yard dash; Lisa Kirkwood, second in 50-yard dash and third in standing long jump; and Chris McCluskey, second in 220-yard dash.

Adult men, who have amateur status, interested in playing or coaching full tackle football on organized teams, will have the opportunity to do so in the now forming Orange County Football Conference.

A spokesman said that the age bracket is 23 to 40 years. The conference will be organized in 10 county cities with one team representing each city. One of the teams will group players from Yorba Linda, Placentia and Tustin.

The season will be 10 weeks starting September 11. Games will be played at Memorial Park in Santa Ana. Application will be taken at the park at 2 p.m. on, Saturday, July 10.

"This is an opportunity for armchair quarterbacks to get up, get out, get into shape and have some real football fun," the spokesman said.

For further information call or contact the Orange County Football Conference at 541-3388 or P.O. Box 1192, Placentia, CA 92670.

New from Monroe
No oil filter in the world does as much for your car.

The plus* in filter plus* the patented time release disc.

The Monroe Filter Plus™. A dramatic new concept in filters that does more than just filter oil. It's the first major change in oil filters since their invention.

Today's modern engine oils contain up to 20% chemical additives. Vital ingredients added by oil companies to give engines the protection they need... to prevent the buildup of sludge, maintain viscosity, fight wear and corrosion.

No matter how often you change oil, the new Monroe Filter Plus™ will give your engine better lubrication than an ordinary filter. Try one!

But these chemicals wear out as you drive.

Now the revolutionary new Monroe Filter Plus with the patented timed-release disc rebuilds the additives as they wear out... automatically. The result: better engine protection.

It's like changing your oil every mile you drive.

Flags At Half Mast For Fire Pilot

Flags flying at half mast at Orange County Fire Stations, including those in the city of Placentia, are in memoriam of William Sears, 31, from Santa Rosa, a contracted pilot who lost his life on a fire drop last week.
Sears, flying a tanker aircraft, died Tuesday when his plane crashed at the site of the Red Bluff fire as he was making a drop from his plane, personnel at Placentia's Fire Station No. 34 report. The Santa Rosa pilot leaves his wife and two children.

Personnel reporting to the severe fire areas in the past week, from the Placentia stations, include Capt. Larry Flagg from Station No. 34.
The fire year is expected to be one of the worst in history because of the acute shortage of rainfall this year, station personnel advise.

Campersto Invade Quaker Meadow

"Are you going to Quaker Meadow?"
"Which camp do your kids attend?"
"Is it really 7200 feet elevation in the High Sierras? It must be beautiful."

Questions and comments about Quaker Meadow summer camps are flying around Rose Drive Friends Church. Already nearly 50 campers from the church have registered. Quaker Meadow representative Jack Gilpin expects dozens July 11 with services at 9 a.m. and 6 p.m., followed by a special youth service at 8 p.m. Services will continue each weekday evening at 7:30 p.m. with the final service Friday July 16.

Local ministers Glenn McCoy and Duane Canby noted that this series culminates a five year wait to obtain a place on Allen's speaking schedule.
They emphasized that the public is invited to attend all services. No contributions will be solicited from the community.

Council Sets Meeting

The next meeting of the Placentia Coordinating Council is set for Thursday, July 8 at 1 p.m. at the Senior Citizens Clubhouse, 143 S. Bradford Avenue, Placentia.
Henry Paris, Deputy Program Director for the North Orange County Child Guidance Center, will be the speaker. Paris will talk about the services which will be provided by the Child Guidance Center in Placentia this fall.
The Coordinating Council invites all interested organizational representatives and individual citizens to attend.

more for the 12 camping experiences offered this summer.
It's little wonder that the enthusiasm runs high. Campers from previous years return with glowing reports of breath-taking beauty, outdoor fun and spiritual inspiration. Words fail to describe the wonderful view you can get from various places around Quaker Meadow Camp.
The camp itself is secluded among tall fir trees, but a short hike will take you to Inspiration Point. A more strenuous hike will give you a magnificent view of the Sierra Nevada Mountains.
The scenic wonders symbolize the new horizons that come to many campers in their Christian life as they spend a week at Quaker Meadow Camp.
Harold Slick, youth pastor at Rose Drive Friends Church, is expecting ten new high schoolers for the Leadership Camp this weekend, July 8-12. A new program, this year, Leadership Camp is planned for Youth' Sponsors/Advisors and key youth who are interested in improving their youth ministry.
Other staff members from the church will participate too. Doug Clark, Jr. High pastor, will serve as director of Frontier II Camp for 8th grade students July 31 - August 7.
Quaker Meadow Camp facilities include a chapel with a grand view of a meadow, four lodges for housing campers, a dining hall where delicious meals are enjoyed, and infirmary for emergencies and health care, a heated swimming pool for hours of delightful swimming, and a small lake where one-man kayaks are the growing sport.
Some 1,500 youth and adults will enjoy the Mountain Retreat this summer. They will come from 35 churches and their surrounding communities in California and Arizona.
Members of Rose Drive Friends Church in Yorba Linda will send their children to camps just for their age group (4th grade and up) or go as a family to the Labor Day Family Camp.
Since friends and neighbors are invited, some readers may want to contact the church (528-6496) for information on dates and costs.
Quaker Meadow Camp fees run less expensive than many other summer programs in the mountains.

"Finian's Rainbow" is about an Irishman and his daughter who steal a pot of gold from the leprechauns of the Emerald Isle and bring it to Rainbow Valley, in the American state of Mississippi, which is an idyllic spot, except for one handicap.

The handicap is that Rainbow Valley and its singing citizens are afflicted with an old fashioned bigoted politician, not too deeply disguised under the name of Senator Billboard Rawkins, played by Irwin Lawton, Anaheim.

Fabric selection is of the utmost importance in decorating for children's bedrooms. Naturally, you won't want to spend an arm and a leg for fabric, but don't make the mistake of buying poor quality material for a child's room. It is much too wasteful in the long run to think you'll just buy something low-budget - you'll pay in the end by throwing it out.
Materials such as cotton and polyester, corduroy, dacron, nylon and olefin are good fabrics for children's rooms. Sailcloth, and cotton duck are very good fabrics for both bedsprads as well as window treatments. If you plan to use colorful fabric on windows, be sure to have it lined, as it will fade if you don't. Levolor blinds are a perfect solution to window treatments in children's rooms, as they are durable, easy to clean, colorful and inexpensive. They are great used in correlation with drapery treatments or imaginative valances.
Boy's bedsprads are great done in wide-wale corduroy or 100% nylon fabrics.

Anti-Rabies Shots for Cats July 13

A low cost anti-rabies clinic will be held for cats only on Tuesday, July 13th at the Orange County Animal Shelter located at 561 City Drive South in Orange. The clinic will operate from 7 to 8:30 p.m. The fee is $2.
Primary immunization can be given to cats as early as three months of age. Annual revaccination is recommended.
The Orange County Health Department and the Southern California Veterinary Medical Association (SCVMA) have expressed concern over the possibility of cats contracting rabies and passing this fatal disease onto humans.
Unlike dogs, cats are not required by law to be immunized against rabies. However, Dr. William Dieterich, Orange County Veterinarian, stresses the importance of protecting cats against this highly infectious disease.
A cat exposed to rabies endangers his owners and all other humans and animals, domestic or wild, he encounters. Cat bites are a common everyday occurrence. A bite from a rabid cat can be fatal.

School District to retire at age 58, has been approved by district trustees.
 The arrangement also would permit the person retiring to serve up to 40 days a year at specialized contractual educational activities mutually agreed upon by the person and the school district, but not in substitute service.

The contract with the individual would not exceed four years or to age 65, which ever comes first, based on the evaluation of satisfactory performance for each year of service.

Advantages to the district were pointed out to be in financial savings "in increased turnover in staff at the upper ranges of the salary schedule."

Individuals eligible would have to have been with the district a minimum of ten years before applying
